INDEX TO VOLUME 193 (A)

Accuracy of atomic co-ordinates derived from Fourier series in X-ray crystallography. V. (Booth & Britten), 305.
Anisotropic metals, theory of yielding (Hill), 281.
Atmospherics, propagation of the ‘slow’ or tail component (Hales), 60.
Axon, H. J. & Hume-Rothery, W. The lattice spacings of solid solutions of different elements in aluminium, 1.

Bakerian Lecture. Some problems in connexion with the development of a high speed Diesel engine (Ricardo), 210.
Batchelor, G. K. & Townsend, A. A. Decay of isotropic turbulence in the initial period, 539.
Boas, W. & Hargreaves, M. E. On the inhomogeneity of plastic deformation in the crystals of an aggregate, 89.
Booth, A. D. & Britten, K. H. V. The accuracy of atomic co-ordinates derived from Fourier series in X-ray crystallography. V, 305.
Britten, K. H. V. See Booth & Britten.
Burgoyne, J. H. & Williams-Leir, G. The influence of incombustible vapours on the limits of inflammability of gases and vapours in air, 525.

Carbon dioxide-carbon reaction (Gadsby, Long, Sleightholm & Sykes), 357.
Control of the temperature of endothermic reactions in flow systems (Gadsby & Sykes), 400.

Decay of isotropic turbulence in the initial period (Batchelor & Townsend), 539.
Diesel engine, development of a high speed (Ricardo), 210.

Excitation of nuclei by electrons (Sneddon & Touschek), 344.

Foucault test, interpretation (Linfoot), 248.

Gadsby, J. & Sykes, K. W. The control of the temperature of endothermic reactions in flow systems, 400.
Galvanomagnetic and thermomagnetic effects in metals (Sondheimer), 484.
Gilles, D. C. The use of interlacing nets for the application of relaxation methods to problems involving two dependent variables, 407.
