

Editorial

Electronic submission to Proceedings A: an invitation to authors

Since 2000, Proceedings A has offered authors the option to submit their paper electronically via its Electronic Submission and Peer Review (ESPERE) service. This has been a great success with a significant proportion of authors now choosing this route. We are keen for all authors to benefit from this service and are writing to encourage you to make your next submission via this route. Electronic submission provides the following benefits to authors.

No multiple photocopies of your paper or figures are required

Simply upload your submission as a single electronic file that combines text and graphics. It is vital that the file is readable on referees' computers. Since it is not possible to be sure what software is available on their computer, the files must be available in a portable format. The format that most closely matches this criterion is Adobe Acrobat Portable Document Format (PDF). For this reason we require electronic submissions prepared as PDF files according to the guidelines given on our Web site. These files can be easily prepared from L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X or common word processors using inexpensive software.

No postal delays when submitting

We receive electronic submissions from all over the world and many authors have felt the benefit of submitting in a matter of seconds and eliminating postal delays. The cost of sending a paper by courier or by post is also removed.

More rapid peer review than the paper-based system

Once referees have agreed to review a paper we can enable them to access your paper in a secure manner, without postal delays. Most referees also take up the opportunity to submit their reports electronically.

Referees can view your paper as intended in full colour

Referees have been enthusiastic about receiving papers in this manner, as they can view the submission exactly as the author intended and with good graphical quality in full colour.

Ability to track the progress of your submission online

You are able to track the progress of your submission online. This will provide information on when referees have been assigned and when a decision has been reached. This will supplement the facility to contact the editorial team directly.

With your support, we anticipate that we can enhance the overall Proceedings A service to both authors and readers. For full details on preparing and submitting electronic files please visit <http://www.pubs.royalsoc.ac.uk>.

We look forward to your next submission.

PROFESSOR JOHN PENDRY, EDITOR
PHILLIP HURST, PUBLISHING SERVICES MANAGER